

State Police Founded 60 Years Ago by Kingston Man

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — The 60th birthday Monday of the New York State Police held special meaning for Ulster County. Kingston's Col. George F. Chandler founded and organized the first 232-man force and the first man to enlist was John A. Hopkins of Kerhonkson.

If Chandler, the first superintendent, and the first troopers could have looked six decades beyond their first day together in 1917, they would have been hard pressed to comprehend the breadth by which their fledgling organization was to grow.

With 3,437 members in uniform and in the plainclothes of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, the statewide sphere of police penetration spans the most isolated farm and wilderness areas to the innermost enclaves of organized crime.

Chandler, for whom Col. Chandler Drive in Kingston was named, was appointed the first superintendent. He led the state police force through the early stages of organization.

But a woman's anger was largely responsible for the founding of the versatile force. While the coming of the automobile age would have made the creation of the state police inevitable in time, what put New York in the vanguard of the movement was the murder of Sam Howell on a Saturday morning in 1913 and the effect it had on two women, Moyca Newell and Katherine Mayo.

Newell, foreman on a home being erected for Miss Newell in Westchester County, was the object of a holdup attempt by four men as he approached the property on a motorcycle with the payroll for carpenters. Riddled by bullets, he nevertheless continued to the construction site, delivered the payroll and, before he lost consciousness, identified two of the gunmen as men he had hired. Three days later he died.

The two women were witnesses to the inertia of the village constable, who was called to the scene from his grocery store, and the sheriff. The four assailants had fled to the woods, surrounded by open fields, practically on the scene of the crime, yet no attempt was made to arrest them or bar their escape. None were ever captured.

Shocked by what they had witnessed, the women launched a campaign. (See BIRTHDAY, page 5)

At Least $2.5 Million Needed

Road Bond Sought

By CHAZY DOWALIBY

KINGSTON — The legislature's finance committee will be asked to okay one of two highway construction bond issues tonight — one for $6 million or a "bare bones" request for $2.5 million.

The request comes from the bridge and highway committee, which has been inspecting county roads for the past month with rather negative findings.

"The highway department is putting together a plan today to show the worst roads...what absolutely has to be done," said Marlboro Republican Nelson Dina.

"Most of them are here in the southern part of the county where they are used for agriculture. We've got heavy tractor trailers going over these roads between Rtes. 9W and 32 and the terrible condition is affecting many industries."

The highway committee had originally thought to ask approval for the $6 million bond issue and embark on a comprehensive county road repair project over the next few years.

"We met last night and decided perhaps the legislature would not approve the first proposal so we will offer two. The $2.5 million is what we absolutely have to have."

Dina said one road inspected by the committee, the Milton Turnpike, had been built around 1900 for horse and wagon traffic.

"We started to repair that road several years ago but ran out of money. Now there are pipes laying along the side of the road rusting."

"We've got tractor trailers and school buses traveling the turnpike. It's the major road between Milton (See ROADS, page 5)

ELLENVILLE — What promoters jokingly call show-and-bet-OTB will come to Ellenville next week when Ulster County's third off-track betting parlor opens in the lobby of the Norbury Theater.

"The opening will coincide with vacationers filtering into the Catskills for recreational pursuits," said Catskill OTB president Donald Groth Monday.

"People from New York City who vacation in this region have become accustomed to betting with OTB and we feel this will be a convenience for them," he said.

The Norbury, owned for the past 35 or 40 years by the Pioneer Volunteer Fire Company of Ellenville, has been used lately to show family and cartoon features to help raise money for the vols.

"This money will help us out financially," said a Pioneer spokesman.

"We've been trying to show these movies to make a little money, but nobody in the community supports us...now they're asking why we rented to OTB."

The fire company, which previously showed Saturday matinees, will switch theater times to Sunday afternoon, when OTB is closed.

"We were pleased with the opportunity to sign this agreement with the fire company," said Groth. "The lease contains some mutually workable provisions which will allow us to test market the advantages for us, and also help out the owners."

"They got a new candy counter out of the deal," said Groth.

The two other county OTB parlors, in Ulster and New Paltz, have pulled in about $1.5 million in wagers since they opened last October.

Groth compares the figures favorably with similar operations opened in Dutchess County at about the same time.

President Calls Censorship Fears Premature

Hofbauer Defends Review

By ROB BORSELLINO

KINGSTON — There is "too much overreaction" to the Kingston Board of Education's plan to set up a permanent committee to review textbooks and curriculum, board President Fredrick Hofbauer said today.

Last week Hofbauer announced the board's Student Services Committee, chaired by Richard Skala, will begin setting guidelines for the review committee. The announcement brought concern from other board members, parents and teachers. Most were worried over the possibility of the committee becoming a board of censors.

Hofbauer says the concern is premature.

"They (the committee) will just be checking up on what is being done by other people in the system," said Hofbauer.

"They'll take the reports and recommendations submitted by the teachers and administrators and they'll investigate them and present the results to the entire board and that's all."

The president said the state education law gives the local district "the right and the responsibility" to establish the committee.

"This is not something new," said Hofbauer. "It's just something that hasn't been done in the past five years since I've been on the board."

Barbara Kleckner, president of the Kingston Teacher's Federation, says "Hofbauer is not being honest if he says the concern is an overreaction."

"It's a reaction," said Ms. Kleckner. "I just don't trust Richard Skala. He's working for a group of people that would like to see censorship in the district and as a teacher, I see and hear things that the general public might not be aware of." (See CENSORS, page 5)

Firemen Pull Boy, 11, From Waist-Deep Mud

BLOOMINGTON — A tragedy was averted Monday night when Bloomington firemen rescued an 11-year-old boy from waist-deep mud in a LeFever Falls Road stream near his home.

Using ladders and ropes, firemen pulled Paul Koch, son of Mrs. Karen Koch, from the bog during the 20-minute rescue effort in which 25 volunteers were involved, authorities said.

Young Paul had been fishing with his brother, Patrick Koch, 8 and a friend, Joel Ronk, when he sank in mud as he attempted to clean a pond sluiceway of debris, sheriff deputies said.

Young Joel reportedly tied a rope around Paul before Patrick ran for help at the Koch home. Authorities were notified and neighbors, the Thomas McInerneys and Edward Klepsis, ran to the scene to rescue the boy.

Bloomington firemen were on the scene in minutes and Ulster County Sheriff Department arrived to assist, according to Juvenile Aid Director Thomas Johnson.

Young Paul, who lost his shoes to the muddy depths, was taken to Kingston Hospital for examination and was treated, released and taken home.

Firemen who had to use their hands to pry the boy loose from the mud, and sheriff deputies agreed that quick action saved the boy's life because the more he struggled to free himself, the deeper he became bogged down, Johnson said.

World in Brief

Frost's Nixon Show Beginning May 4

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The first of four interviews with former President Richard Nixon by David Frost will be broadcast the evening of May 4, television station KTTV said Monday.

The next three 90-minute segments will be broadcast May 12, May 19 and May 25, a station announcement said.

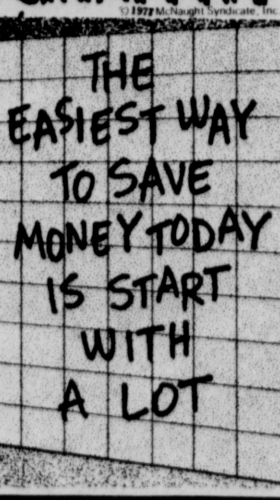

The programs, for which Nixon was paid an unannounced but reportedly multimillion dollar fee, are taken from material taped in a series of closed sessions recently at a house near Nixon's San Clemente retreat.

Sedatives May Not Help Insomniacs

CHICAGO (UPI) — A study published in the current Journal of the American Medical Association reports insomniacs who resort to the use of sleeping pills may be left with "insomnia plus a drug problem."

The report said most insomniacs get more sleep than they realize and the study showed a group of hospital patients who complained they lay awake for more than an hour after going to bed each night actually fell asleep in an average of 26 minutes. Dr. Quentin R. Regestein of the Sleep Clinic at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston, said in the report pills often are unnecessary.

Second Soviet Ship Ordered to Boston

BOSTON (UPI) — The 503-foot refrigerator-transport ship Antanas Sneckus, the mother ship of the Soviet fishing fleet off New England was ordered to Boston Monday. The action came less than 48 hours after the Coast Guard had seized the stern trawler Taras Shevchenko, and escorted it to Boston.

Both ships are suspected of over-fishing — in the case of the trawler seven times the maximum permitted under its fishing license — under the new U.S. 200-mile fishing limit law. Officials warned continued infractions could worsen relations between the two countries. (More on page 16)

Suicide Up Among Suburban Teens

DALLAS (UPI) — Charles Vorkoper, the clinical director of Suicide Prevention — a 24-hour telephone counseling service for persons considering suicide — says suicide is the No. 2 cause of death for all persons in the 15-24 age range.

Vorkoper blames suburban loneliness as the chief cause of teen-age suicide. "There are not enough places for congregation in the suburbs, and young people simply lose much of the support system." Another factor in teen-age suicides is the broken home.

Murder Victim Had Just Left Prison

KINGSTON — The Queens man whose bullet-riddled body was found Thursday in Lembo Lake in Modena had been released only the day before from an Annapolis, Md., prison, District Attorney Francis J. Vogt said today.

Thomas Clark, who was killed in an execution-style slaying, was arrested last November in the act of committing a burglary in Annapolis, according to Maryland authorities.

Vogt said there had been a gun fight during the arrest and Clark was shot. He recovered and was subsequently charged with burglary and assault on a police officer and sentenced to jail.

The state police BCI investigation is continuing. Investigators want to know how Clark got to Ulster County after his release from prison and when, where and why he was murdered here.

His partially submerged body was discovered in the lake by a fisherman; the lake is located off Route 44/55. Clark had been shot six times with a large-caliber gun and blood stains covered the embankment down which his body rolled into the pond, police said.

Police said they thought Clark died almost instantly. Clark's body was clothed with the exception of pants.

The state police investigation is under the direction of Troop F Commander Capt. D. J. Pinto and Highland Inv. John F. Salters.

District Attorney Branches Out

Rosendale Gets Consumer Fraud Office

KINGSTON — County consumers won't have to come into Kingston with their complaints anymore.

The first of what District Attorney Frank Vogt hopes will be a series of satellite walk-in centers from the Consumer Fraud Bureau has opened in Rosendale Town Hall.

The center, staffed by volunteer students from the cooperative education program at Ulster Community College, will be open two or three days a week to field questions on consumer rights, complaints about faulty merchandise or unfair selling practices, and participate in occasional field work investigations.

The county's main office in the court house in Kingston has been open about a year. It provides similar services with a small (one man) paid staff and some volunteer backup.

"What we can't do is offer legal advice, or compel anyone to do anything," says consumer assistant Jon Burstein.

"What we can and do offer is mediation in some disputes between retailers and clients, and attempt to find a middle ground."

Burstein also sees his office as a outlet for consumer information education — sort of preventative medicine — helping people to know their rights before they buy, or sell, or get involved in legal transactions.

The new Rosendale walk-in center staff will also make themselves available to local consumer groups, senior citizens, civic association and schools for consumer education and training clinics.

"The purpose of the center is to provide localized assistance to aggrieved Rosendale consumers," says Vogt.

"If the project works as well as we expect it to, we anticipate being able to duplicate this service in many other Ulster County communities."

Local consumer groups have recently been advocating the setting up of a county Consumer Protection Agency which would act on specially enacted local laws. Neither Burstein or the county's only other consumer advocate, Ralph Mayone, the Sealer of Weights and Measures, thinks a special office is necessary right now.

"I think the legislature is right to watch what this office accomplished this year," says Burstein. "If they decide to increase our funding we certainly could increase our range of activities. But there is still a great

'People' Are the Honored Guests

Bicentennial Invitations Go Out to 5,000

KINGSTON— Close to 5,000 invitations to Kingston's April 23 state bicentennial celebration have been sent to citizens in all corners of New York, but "the real guests of honor will be the people of Ulster County," explained Janet Yallum, one of the coordinators of the event.

"It also should be emphasized that people who don't receive invitations are still urged to come and participate," said Ms. Yallum.

The invitations were the result of lists sent to Ms. Yallum by Assemblyman Maurice Hinchey, Senator Richard Schermerhorn, Mayor Francis R. Koenig, the Kingston Bicentennial Commission and County Historian Rose LeFever. In addition, invitations have been sent out by Governor Hugh Carey's office and the office of Assemblyman and a member of the Historic Landmarks Commission, the State Bicentennial Commission and several other organizations.

Because people will be coming into the city from around the state, Ms. Yallum has included copies of the Chamber of Commerce tourguide and the Historic Kingston brochure with each out of town mailing. The Ramada Inn, Holiday Inn and Howard Johnson, with a total of close to 400 rooms, all say that the post-Easter event comes at a good time, since it's considered the off season for travelers.

cies have been informed of the expected influx of people for the celebration and security preparations are being made now, Speaker Stanley Steingut. Koenig has sent 650 invitations to various mayor's around the state.

Ed Levine, chairman of the Kingston Bicentennial Commission says an estimated 2,500 people can be accommodated at the Kingston Armory where the afternoon activities will take place.

"We expect that many of the people who receive invitations will not be coming," said Levine, "because there were a lot of what you might call courtesy invitations sent. That would include local residents who retired and moved to Florida and things of that nature."

Levine also pointed out that some of the names submitted on the various mailing lists would be duplicate names, such as Harry Rigby Jr. Rigby is the City of Kingston His-

Shoving Match in Courtroom

Moonie Appeal Releases Five from Parents

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An appellate court has wiped out a judge's order placing five followers of the Rev. Sun Myung Moon in their parents' custody for 30 days to undergo "deprogramming."

The state District Court of Appeal Monday granted a writ of prohibition against the conservatorship order of Superior Court Judge S. Lee Vavuris.

It also took under consideration a complaint by Moon's Unification Church that the parents violated the district court's temporary order against "deprogramming," pending the outcome of the appeal of Vavuris' order.

The district court's action, however, actually only affects two "Moonies." The three others renounced the church after Vavuris' March 24 ruling.

Jacqueline Katz, 21, of Wolcott, N.Y., Barbara Underwood, 25, of Portland, Ore., and Leslie Brown, 23, of Berkeley Heights, N.J., had said they would not resume their lives as "Moonies."

John Howard Jr., 23, of Danville, Calif., said he would

"most likely" go back to the church. "I plan to spend some time immediately with my parents and talk to them, but I am still a member of the church," he said.

Janice Kaplan, 24, of Toledo, Ohio, said she had not changed her mind about being a "Moonie."

Shortly after the three-judge appellate court handed down its decision, Miss Kaplan's mother and "Moonie" Bethie Rubenstein, 27, of Sarasota, Fla., got in a shoving match. Miss Rubenstein said later she was "just trying to give Jan a hug" when she was pushed away by Mrs. Kaplan.

The parents had argued before Vavuris that their children were victims of brainwashing. Church lawyers said, however, the parents wanted to submit their children to the brainwashing techniques of the "deprogrammers."

Vavuris granted the 30-day conservatorship on grounds the parents did not intend to harm their children. The church attorneys told the appellate court the judge's order was vague and unconstitutional.

Jerome Falk, a church lawyer, said after the appellate court decision: "There's no shred of evidence that they were physically abused or that they were restrained of their liberty. The first restraint of liberty was by order of the Superior Court."

Thursday Proclaimed Holocaust Day

KINGSTON — Thursday has been proclaimed Holocaust Day in memory of six million Jews killed by the Nazis and their collaborators in World War II.

A holocaust memorial program will be held Thursday, 7:30 p.m., at Congregation Agudas Achim, 254 Lucas Ave. There will be dramatic readings, exhibits and a memorial service with a six-branched menorah lit by survivors of the holocaust, each candle representing one million martyrs.

In making his official proclamation for Thursday, which is the Hebrew date of 27 Nissan, Mayor Francis R. Koenig said the martyred Jews must be "remembered so that those crimes against humanity will never be repeated, and so that civilized men the world over will never forget the unspeakable horrors that they endured."

Rabbi Basil Herring of Agudas Achim invited the entire community to the memorial program as one of the "very few activities in our lives whose importance transcends all restrictions of race, religion, political persuasion or economic status."

Saugerties Tax Hike Slight

SAUGERTIES — Village of Saugerties residents can expect a slight tax hike this year, but the increase has been kept at a minimum. Under the tentative tax rate, local property owners will be paying $39.88 per $1,000 assessed valuation. That's only $1.33 more than last year's rate of $38.55.

The 1977-78 budget will get a reading tonight by the Village Board at 8 p.m. in the municipal building office. Preliminary figures include $560,899 in the general fund; $123,300 for the separate water budget; and $12,200 as the village's share of the local public library budget.

Discussion at tonight's hearing will also center on the federal revenue sharing budget, which totals $39,500.

The newly seated Village Board will also discuss another financial matter at a special meeting April 14 at 5:30 p.m. The board must act on bonded indebtedness involving the previous purchase of a fire truck. A one year bond in the amount of $17,000 is due Chase Manhattan Bank on April 15, and the board is expected to authorize required payments and renegotiate monetary arrangements for the remainder of the indebtedness for another year.

Village clerk-treasurer Georgette Hughes said the board will also discuss a separate tax matter with its attorney, William Brinnier, at the April 14 session.

Still another public hearing will be held prior to the board's regular meeting on April 18. The hearing has been set for 7:30 p.m. in the municipal office to consider the establishment of a five-member water board. The regular session will begin at 8 p.m.

NEW PALTZ NEWS

Erman Tract Annexation Likely

NEW PALTZ — The town board may vote as early as tonight on whether to give up a 240-acre tract of land which owner Jack Erman seeks to have annexed to the village.

The board has until April 18 to act on the annexation petition, which was unanimously approved by the village board Feb. 28. If the town board approves, local laws adopted by both boards will complete the annexation.

Although many questions have been raised about sewer and water lines to the proposed annexation, town board members indicated they will approve the annexation.

"If development occurs on Erman's property, we gain on our tax base and it won't cost us anything," Councilman Walter Luczai said at a workshop session Monday night in Supervisor William Yeaple's office.

"I will go along with the owner of the property," said Councilman George Schneider. "He has been paying taxes on his land. I'm not saying what he wants to do is best. Only time will tell."

Erman petitioned for annexation last November when he was unable to get sewer and water service from the town.

"We petitioned in 1971 and again in 1973 for sewers," Erman said. "In 1974 you developed a master plan no one wanted. This town has stopped us from developing for the past six or seven years."

Erman charges that the town's inaction has forced him to "become almost broke."

Schneider was sympathetic to Erman's plight. "I came down here with the intent not to hold up Jack Erman any more," he said.

When he tried to force a vote, however, objections were raised by Yeaple and Councilman Jack Gibbons.

"This is a serious decision," Gibbons said, indicating he had several unanswered questions. "The action we take now on this important piece of decision could have an impact on this area for a long time to come."

Gibbons raised the question of "Tributary 13," a drainage line running through Erman's property. He suggested an attachment be added to the annexation promising the town it could run future lines through Erman's property if it is annexed.

Board members agreed with his suggestion, and after the meeting Yeaple and Gibbons attempted to draw up the agreement.

If the attachment can be taken care of by tonight, Gibbons and Yeaple said, a vote may be taken on the annexation immediately before a scheduled joint town and village board meeting.

Rape Victim, Gardner's Wife Testify

KINGSTON — The former New Paltz state university coed who claims a 42-year-old father of three forcibly raped her in his car near the Walkkill River in 1974 testified in Ulster County Court that the more she tried to stop Charles Gardner's advances, "the more he hurt me."

Linda M. Moldovan, 23, who now teaches outdoor education, testified that she tried to talk Gardner out of alleged forced intercourse and sodomy because she "just wanted to get out of the car without his murdering me."

As he drove her home, she said, he asked if she "enjoyed it" and whether she would like to see him again.

"He asked me if I wanted to go to the police," then he told her he would sue her for slander when she indicated she did want to press charges, she testified.

The next day he came up to her in class and wanted to know if she wanted any money or help, she stated.

The young woman was one of several witnesses called by prosecutor Michael Kavanagh, chief assistant district attorney.

Dr. Edward Quinn testified that his examination showed evidence of intercourse. When asked by defense counsel Frank Martocci if her vaginal bruises could have resulted from consensual intercourse, the doctor said no.

Sheldon Ciner, a former student at SUNY, testified concerning Ms. Moldovan's attempt to seek aid from the campus crisis center, known as Oasis, as did Zachary Rosen. Mrs. Margaret Van Valkenburg, a registered nurse at the campus health center, also testified for the prosecution.

Martocci called Mrs. Gardner to the witness stand Monday afternoon. She told the court her husband arrived home at 10:50 the night in question and that three days later, when he heard police were looking for him, he went voluntarily to the state police barracks.

Kavanagh's questioning of Mrs. Gardner revealed that her husband's last class ended at 1:30 p.m. and that they lived only a few minutes away from the campus.

Police authorities contend that Gardner offered the coed a ride from a restaurant to her off-campus residence and allegedly drove her to an isolated spot where the alleged attack took place. They claimed he threatened her with physical harm at the time.

Martocci and Kingston attorney Barry Lippman state they will prove Ms. Moldovan did not accompany Gardner against her will, that she made no effort to get out of the car and that the defendant did not use force. Martocci suggested that possibly she may have had intercourse with someone else before getting in Gardner's car.

Ms. Moldovan told the court she met Gardner about 3 p.m., Nov. 11, at P&G's in the village and that they later drove to a restaurant known then as the Three Penny Inn. She said Gardner then volunteered to drive her home but proceeded toward the river, suggesting they go swimming.

Asked by Kavanagh if she attempted to get out of the car, she said it was parked in a dark area and "there was no place to go."

The trial continued today with County Judge Raymond J. Mino presiding.

New Paltz Town Meetings This Month

NEW PALTZ — Supervisor William Yeaple has released a schedule of meetings involving New Paltz town officials during April.

At 8:30 p.m. tonight the town and village boards will hold a joint meeting with the police commissioner and chief of police to discuss insurance.

At 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 14, the town board will hold a public hearing on the Mohonk Trust.

At 8 p.m. Monday, April 18, the town and village boards, the town and village planning boards, and the environmental conservation commission will hold a joint meeting in the village hall.

The town board will hold a workshop session at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 25, and a regular monthly meeting at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 27.

The public may attend all meetings. All meetings except for the April 18 joint session 130 North Chestnut Street, New Paltz.

STAFF'S CHANCE

Terribly Nice People

Some strange things flash across one's mind when his personal physician tells him to pack a few things and head for the hospital — especially so when the destination is the Coronary Care Unit.

You actually begin to wonder if the game is approaching the ninth inning. But, you take his advice, pack a few belongings, call your boss, get your wife to chauffeur, and head for the Emergency Room where that inevitable wheelchair awaits.

I've entitled this in-hospital treatise "Terribly Nice People." Two personal friends of our family sent along this book of cartoons by William Hamilton, and the title struck me later, as I perused the book, as a nutshell of what the CCU nurses really accomplish in their never-ending roles as nurse, counselor, friend and above all, fellow human being.

For those who've been patients at Benedictine Hospital's CCU I am sure the treatment was equally fine, but these "Terribly Nice People" with whom I came into contact at Kingston Hospital deserve all the praise in the world. They include the staff, Dr. Edmund H. Reppert, director of medical education, who was actually in charge of the CCU, all those great young women who are not merely "plain nurses," but really a "rare breed" and purveyors of good health. They give more than just their nurses' experience to help one along.

To the Mary Ellens, Kathys, Carols, Darlens, and all the others — emotional experience at the CCU under the expertise of your hands and true concern — is certainly an experience one cannot overlook and forget!

I heard and saw many other patients brought in during my time in the heart-monitoring room of the CCU — many perhaps in a lot more serious condition than I — but each received the same tender-loving-care from these "Terribly Nice People."

If it is the misfortune of any reader to require such medical attention in the future, rest assured that only the "best" awaits you in the form of attention, medication and personal concern in our own hometown CCU and ICU Units.

Food Stamp Frustration

Dear Editor:

In the last few weeks, your paper has been printing articles regarding food stamps — in fact, almost begging people to apply. I thought about it, as my family have come upon hard times, as a lot of others, especially in Ulster County, to which you have made this appeal.

Well, I had the forms sent to me, filled them out, got together all other information needed and applied.

Today I received a letter from food stamps, stating that I have been accepted. They will give me $99 worth of food stamps for which I must pay $85, every two weeks.

First off, we are a family of five and our yearly income is $6,800. So on food stamps I will save $7 weekly, which isn't enough to buy the extras that food stamps does not cover, detergents, paper products, etc.

There was a big article not too long ago in your paper stating that a family of three earning $6,800 yearly would definitely qualify. We are five and I truly don't feel it is worth getting food stamps. I feel I wasted my time going up there baring my soul, even down to having to tell them just how much money I had in my pocket. I was told by the interviewer that I could have as much as $1,500 in my pocket and still qualify. That is really a laugh, for if I could afford to walk around with that kind of money on my person, I wouldn't be looking for food stamps.

As editor of the paper that printed these articles, you must know all the ins and outs of food stamps, so putting yourself in my place, do you really feel they are helping people, such as myself, to eat better meals, and help themselves make a better life for their families?

I would appreciate hearing from you on this. I would truly like your opinion, as I feel that what they have decided to give me is unfair. As you can see, $50 a week will not feed a family of five, not anywhere in the world, let alone Ulster County.

Thanking you for your consideration and awaiting your reply.

Democracy in Rosendale

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter to let you know how the town meetings in Rosendale compare to the ones you described in rural New England.

First of all I must say that attendance is very poor compared to what you described in New England because people are turned off by the actions of the town board on just about any topic of discussion that comes before it.

Second the only people that meet you at the door now seem to be our local police which helps advertise the police state we are almost in.

Third the moderator, who in Rosendale's case is the Supervisor or Richard Glazer, has decided to use the police force to protect himself because of his own deception, half-truths and sometimes, lies.

At the March town board meeting, Mr. Glazer ordered one of the local police to arrest me for trying to ask a question about home relief. Think about that, arrest a person for trying to ask a question about home relief back payments to the county. I was not even allowed to ask the simple question: what period of time was covered by our back billing to the county for home relief?

Candidate Backs Text Reviews

Dear Editor:

It is appalling when in America people who have been given public trust begin to intimidate and display their contempt for the public they serve. I commend Mr. Skala and Mr. Hofbauer for defending their rights to establish a curriculum review board. I would encourage every parent to read the book entitled, "Humanist Manifestos I & II," by Prometheus Book Publishers.

Humanism is a religion, and it dominates the public school system. It is atheism in formal dress. If it is to be taught in the public schools then theism should also be taught. Once again I encourage all parents to read this short manifesto "before" they come to a conclusion about curriculum review.

South African Impasse

The other evening a visitor from South Africa put it this way to the guests at dinner:

"I abominate present arrangements in South Africa. I always have. I am public in that opposition, and have devoted a good deal of my time to endorsing and subsidizing the activities of the energetic opposition. I do think that progress is being made there, and that that progress is insufficient. But here is what confounds me about the criticism from the United States.

"That criticism fails to acknowledge any formula for South Africa that would be satisfying to our critics in America. One thing that will not happen in South Africa — and should not happen — is the subordination of three to four million white people to total black domination. We are not, after all, colonialists. Our claims to South Africa are at least as legitimate, racially and historically, as those of the black Africans. In the last analysis it is irresponsible to tell South Africa what is expected of it if what is really expected of it is euthanasia for the white race. What do our critics desire?"

The question is difficult to answer. The other day, riding about the Transkei, Jacques Soustelle, former intimate of De Gaulle, sociologist and archeologist, sometime governor of Algeria, wrote that the reason the Transkei has been subjected to universal boycott is that Chief Matanzima did not get that territory after killing a lot of white people. It was a matter of negotiation, and indeed South Africa is the godfather of the whole Bantustan idea, rather than the wounded ex-colonialist power petulant after a revolutionary amputation. Indeed it is true: if the Transkei had declared its independence after shooting a bunch of white African soldiers, and won concessions from South Africa exactly identical to those she has freely got, there would be a representative of the Transkei in the United Nations, at the Human Rights Commission in Geneva, and at the International Conference of the Law of the Sea. Instead, it is a non-country.

Western critics of South Africa seem to be saying the same thing. Rhodesia's experience with Mr. Kissinger is in point. The concessions made by Ian Smith went much further than any in prospect by the South African government; and yet in a matter of weeks, these concessions progressed in the public mind from substantial capitulation by Ian Smith, to Ian Smith the irreconcilable. All it required was the propaganda of the worldwide leftist machine, plus the demagoguery of the front line states. South Africa cannot have failed to read this lesson.

The late Saul Alinsky once observed about Liberia that the reason it was sluggish in the conduct of its own affairs is that it was handed its independence by the United States (over a hundred years ago.) According to this thesis a country, to act independently, must fight for its independence.

The conduct of other self-governing states in Africa hardly validates Mr. Alinsky's thesis. What is wrong in Liberia is endemically wrong in much of Africa: one man or one party rule, corruption, sloth, oppression. But that notion combined with the vaguely theological notion that white Africa must be made to suffer for the sins of the past, even as the white South was made to suffer during the Reconstruction, persists. There is a feel, in the rhetoric of much of the criticism of South Africa, that only a Nat Turner solution would suitably avenge history.

Never mind whether a case for this can be made. Such solution is not one the South African whites are likely to be attracted to. Under the circumstances it becomes clear that the whites there will need to make their own way, effect their own compromises, their own adjustments. What we cannot sincerely offer them is any relief from the incessant criticism with which we now threaten to worsen matters. Pressure is one thing, but those on whom it is visited should be convinced that there is relief short of the act of suicide. America would profit from the axiom that it never pays to cut off the enemy's line of retreat.

To Secede or Not?

WASHINGTON—The decision of Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket to secede from the United States is no idle threat. It has been in the works for some time. As a matter of fact, a group of us discussed it one night two years ago at a cookout on William Styron's beach. Lots of lobster had been eaten and daiquiris consumed when the question of secession from the mainland came up.

I think it was Lillian Hellman, or possibly John Hersey, who mentioned that something had to be done to stop the illegal immigration of people from Cape Cod who came over to the Vineyard in the daytime, left all their trash there and then took the ferry back at night.

Styron said that Bostonians had been investing in real estate on the Vineyard, and before we woke up to it the entire island would be infested with rich Harvard professors and claim adjusters from the John Hancock Life Insurance Co.

Jules Feiffer said that fishermen from Hyannisport were encroaching on Vineyard waters and stealing all the bluefish which swam under his pier. Jules was for instituting a 200-mile fishing limit around the Vineyard or 20 feet from his pier, whichever was greater.

Bob Brustein, head of the Yale Drama School, felt that the sailing ships from the New York Regatta should not be permitted to come into Edgartown. "The crews are a bad influence on our children," he said.

"They throw their money around, get into fights in bars and the stockbrokers steal our women."

I pointed out that while the tourists brought money to the island they also insisted on taking our pictures, plying our daughters with nylons and Hershey bars and dressing in whites to play tennis.

More daiquiris were passed around and then the question of secession came up.

The first question was asked by Phillip Roth: Could Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket go it alone?

Rose Styron, Bill's wife, thought we could.

"What about fuel for the island?"

James Reston, who owns the Vineyard Gazette, said, "That's no problem. There are oil spills from tankers off the coast at least twice a year. The oil that floats ashore is more than enough to take care of our needs."

"What about food?" James Taylor asked.

"Simple," said Rose Styron. "If we're independent from the United States they would be obligated to supply us with everything we needed under the Food for Peace program."

"We would also be entitled to a Peace Corps," someone added. "They could cut our laws."

"Don't forget military aid," Brustein added.

"We can't get military aid unless we have a Communist threat."

One of the writers who was eating a lobster claw said, "I was once a Communist in the '40s."

"That solves that problem," Brustein said.

"Okay," John Hersey said, "it's obvious that once we become independent we'll get American aid which will keep us going. But we'll have to have a leader. We need someone who will stand up to the United States and tell them that even though we're accepting their aid we're not going to be pushed around. Whom can we get?"

We passed around the daiquiris as we thought.

Then someone jumped up. "I've got it. Let's make Katharine Graham, the owner of The Washington Post, our prime minister. She has been called the most powerful woman in America. If she becomes the prime minister of Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket she could become the most powerful woman in the world."

"I'll drink to that," I said. And so the seeds of independence were planted that night on William Styron's beach. In years to come the beach will be known as the Munich Beer Hall of the First Republic of Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket. The name will probably be changed to Martha's Tucket as soon as a Declaration of Independence is written by Phillip Roth, who has provisionally titled it, "Martha's Complaint."

Fighters Pledged To Pakistan

WASHINGTON — Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger secretly promised Pakistan $1 billion worth of fighter planes last year as an inducement to keep Pakistan from developing nuclear weapons. Without formally notifying Congress, Kissinger privately offered 110 sophisticated A-7 fighter-bombers to Pakistani President Ali Bhutto.

Bhutto has desperately wanted a nuclear arsenal since his arch-enemy, India, exploded her first atomic bomb in May, 1974. The Pakistanis have tried to persuade the United States, Canada, and most recently, France, to help advance their nuclear technology.

But the United States has been fervently trying to halt the spread of nuclear weapons to other nations. Last August, in order to keep Pakistan from joining the select nuclear arms club, Kissinger personally struck a deal in Karachi with Ali Bhutto, an old ally. Kissinger has been grateful to Bhutto for serving as go-between in reopening the door to China in 1972.

The A-7 fighter planes promised by Kissinger are equipped with advanced missiles, bombs, rockets and cannons, and are one of the most versatile weapons in the American arsenal. Kissinger apparently hoped these planes would make the Pakistanis feel more secure against India, which is militarily stronger.

Pakistan agreed to pay cash for the planes. High-level officials believed, however, that the financially distressed nation would finance the purchase with a $1.1 billion loan from oil-rich Saudi Arabia.

Recently, however, Pakistan has begun to fear that the United States may renege on the deal. In January, Pakistan announced that it would purchase a nuclear reprocessing plant from France. The $150-million plant would produce plutonium, which could be used to make nuclear weapons.

Ironically, U.S. relations with India reached their nadir because of another secret arrangement with Pakistan. During the 1971 war between India and Pakistan over Bangladesh, Kissinger and President Nixon were secretly trying to aid Pakistan.

At a confidential White House meeting, we reported at the time, Kissinger declared: "I'm getting hell every half-hour from the president... He wants to tilt in favor of Pakistan."

The revelation of Kissinger's latest secret promise to Pakistan could not have come at a worse moment for American diplomats. Since Indian Prime Minister Indira Gandhi was ousted in last month's election, U.S. officials have been feverishly working to repair our traditionally shaky relations with India.

State Dept. officials now are quietly trying to convince the Pakistanis to accept a weapons package that would be less repugnant to India.

Footnote: Kissinger vehemently denied that he had "promised" the planes to Bhutto. He told us he only agreed that conventional arms requests from Pakistan "would be viewed in a favorable light if they did not go through with the reprocessing plant." Since no formal accord was reached, he said, there was no need to inform Congress.

TRUMAN TAP?: Richard Nixon wasn't the first president to install recording equipment in the oval office. A Missouri haberdasher named Harry Truman also had a device that today is commonly used for bugging.

Shortly before President Roosevelt died, recalls a sales representative for a recording equipment manufacturer, he demonstrated the device to Truman's top aide, Harry Vaughan. The gadget used an induction coil to record phone conversations without hooking up directly to the phone box. Truman and Vaughan were told that the only legal way to record calls was to notify the other party that the device was being used.

The veteran sales representative, who has asked to remain anonymous, has given us a signed statement. Shortly after Truman became president, he said, he was summoned to the White House and told that Truman was raising Cain because the machine wouldn't work. Vaughan told him to make it work or "get it the hell out of here," the salesman said. However, the president had failed to connect the induction coil to the recording machine.

The businessman told us he doesn't know if Truman ever used the recorder, legally or otherwise. Vaughan denied that any recording devices ever existed or were demonstrated to him by any sales representative.

WHO'S NEWS: When Rep. Thomas Downey, D.-N.Y., and his top defense aide Bob Sherman sent a copy of their scholarly article on arms limitation talks to the White House, they expected little more than a polite acknowledgment. They were astounded, therefore, when President Carter sent them a handwritten note on White House stationery: "Your article is excellent — & very helpful. Vance has a copy — on way to Moscow — Jimmy."

POLICE BEAT

City Burglary Investigations

KINGSTON—Kingston city police are investigating a burglary at Britt's Department Store in Kingston Plaza sometime Sunday or early Monday and have arrested a Lake Katrine man in connection with an entry at Faerber's Market, Smith Avenue and O'Neil Street Monday night.

An inventory of the department store is being taken to determine what if anything is missing, detectives said. Entry was gained by prying open a front door.

Meanwhile police arrested Richard Meyers of Van's Terrace, Lake Katrine, and charged him with petit larceny in connection with the taking of cigars from the market. The 18-year-old man is scheduled for a city court appearance today.

MOTORIST INJURED

A Kingston man was injured Monday night when he was standing at the edge of Route 32, filling his car's empty gas tank and he was struck by a southbound vehicle.

Ulster County sheriff deputies report that Richard Lusk, 26, of 61 Wurts St. was taken to Benedictine Hospital by Doctor's Ambulance and treated for injuries to the leg.

Police said he was allegedly hit by a car driven by Harry J. Nagele of Washington Park, Rosendale, who was going south about 8:30 p.m.

GLENERIE WOODS FIRE

A two and one-half acre Glenerie wood lot succumbed to fire Monday afternoon after the fire apparently started in a play hut used by children.

Centerville, Gasco and Mt. Marion fire companies responded to the call about 3:40 p.m. and were on the scene for close to two hours. The area is known as PVI Hill, authorities said.

The law established the agency as a department, a status it retained until the reorganization of state government in 1927 when the state police became a division of the executive department.

Today, the department's preeminent position in the nation's law enforcement community is evidenced by the large numbers of federal, state and local officers who come to the state police training academy for training. Its leadership in sophisticated techniques of fighting crime, its scientific laboratory, statewide communications, computer network and methods for attracting the finest men and women to fill its ranks are studied and copied across the country.

209 Impact Study Available

ALBANY — Copies of the final environmental impact statement on reconstruction of Rt. 209 between Hurley and Spring Glen are now available for public inspection at Kingston and other area libraries.

The $19 million road job is scheduled to get underway with an Ellenville bypass in as little as two years, and all 27 miles of reconstruction should be finished by 1981, according to the state Department of Transportation.

The recommended route begins on the present highway at the Sullivan County line at Spring Glen and runs north-east, generally along the abandoned right-of-way of the former New York, Ontario and Western Railway, to rejoin a recently rebuilt section of Rt.

209 south of Hurley.

Short segments of Rts. 52 and 55 also are included in the study. The Rt. 52 routing begins a half mile west of Canal and Center Streets in Ellenville and runs southeast to the existing highway east of Ellenville, bypassing the center of the village.

Impact statement copies are on file at libraries in Kingston, Rosendale, Stone Ridge, Hurley, Ellenville, Cragmoor, and at DOT offices in Poughkeepsie and Albany.

DEAR ABBY

Love Will Find a Way

DEAR ABBY: I am a 20-year-old theology student who will one day be a minister. After going with a very lovely girl for a year, I asked her to marry me. She is 18. She told me to ask her father.

In my conversation with the father, he asked me if I was a virgin and I told him I was—which is true. I was surprised that he would ask me such a question because he is of the same religious denomination as me, and he knows that sex before marriage is forbidden.

Well, he surprised me by saying, "I hope you will get a little experience before you marry my daughter because I don't want her going off on a honeymoon with a fellow who doesn't know anything."

Abby, is there all that much to know? I always thought the mating instinct was natural, and there's no harm in learning together. What is your opinion?

PROVO, UTAH

DEAR PROVO: Do ducks have to be taught to fly? And fish to swim?

Love will find a way. Stay sweet as you are.

DEAR ABBY: I protest the use of the pronoun "he" or "him" when referring to people in general.

An example from one of your columns: "Don't ever tell a child that HE is bad. If HE misbehaves, tell HIM you don't like what HE did; don't tell HIM you don't like HIM."

The child could be a boy or a girl, right? But by using only the male pronoun, it implies that males are of primary importance—another blow to the female's self-esteem.

After all, how hard is it to write or say, "she/he" or "his/hers" or "him/herr"?—FAITHFUL READER

DEAR READER: The rule of grammar you speak of, which is to use the masculine pronoun when it applies to both male and female, was NOT devised to put down women. And it is not likely to be changed in the interest of women's rights.

Writing "he/she" or "him/her" is a time-waster, and I for one would find it extremely burdensome.

DEAR ABBY: Shortly before St. Valentine's Day, you had a "confidential" in your column urging each reader to "be a sweetheart" and take a shut-in out for a drive, invite a single over to relieve his (or her) loneliness or send someone you like a funny card, flowers or a little gift.

Well, Abby, we took your advice and came up with a list of 25. In spite of the price of flowers and cards and entertaining these days, we can't remember receiving so much for so little.

Our telephone rang for days! Some with tears in their voices to thank us for thinking of them.

That one "confidential" in the Dear Abby column was worth more than a year's subscription to the newspaper that features your column. I hope you will publish that lovely suggestion annually.—E AND R

DEAR E AND R: You can bet I will. And thanks for being the sweethearts you obviously are.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Dance Workshop And Concert Slated

NEW PALTZ—Bruce Lieberman, composer, concert artist, and creator of techniques introducing dancers to music, will give a workshop for dancers on Saturday, April 23 at 2 p.m., and a concert on Sunday, April 24 at 3 p.m. Both events will be held at The Dancing Theatre, 6 North Front St., New Paltz.

Lieberman presently teaches "Music for Dancers" at Purchase College. In his approach, the dancer uses the voice, finding vocal expression to correspond with his or her movements.

Lieberman's piano concert on Sunday will include the score that he has recently written for the company of Nora Guthrie and Ted Rotante. Lieberman himself dances, and so brings to the dancer a musical understanding that is at once kinetic, emotional and intellectual.

According to Brenda Bufalino, director of The Dancing Theatre, "Dancers have lost intimate contact with music and can receive great benefits from a composer and pianist who can combine these forms in a highly sympathetic and embracing synthesis."

Lieberman's program is funded in part by a grant from "Meet the Composer." Donations for both events will be $3. For further information, contact The Dancing Theatre, New Paltz, or Brenda Bufalino, Wallkill.

A fitting climax to Kingston's Day of Glory

Trio of Bicentennial Balls Nearing

KINGSTON—A trio of Bicentennial Balls will climax a day of festivity, history and entertainment, Saturday, April 23, when Kingston becomes the capital of New York State once again for a short day of glory.

In celebration of the birth of state government in Kingston, the local Bicentennial Commission has arranged three dinner dances to be held simultaneously at the Holiday Inn, the Walnut Grove and the Colonade Restaurant. Top local bands, as well as nationally known performers, will be featured at the galas.

The Holiday Inn will be featuring the "fabulous sounds" of the Van Henry Orchestra for those people who love the songs of the Big Band. The orchestra features a brass section in its 15-member band.

Don Cornell, once called the Don Juan of Hollywood because of his charm and appearance, will be entertaining ball goers at the Walnut Grove along with dancing music by the Monzels. Cornell will be remembered best for his first Gold Record, "It Isn't Fair." This was followed by Gold Record hits: "I'm Yours," "I'll Walk Alone," "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing," "Heart of My Heart," "Hold My Hand." He has appeared on the Jackie Gleason Show, with Johnny Carson, and is a personal friend of Dean Martin.

Starring at The Colonade will be Alan Jones along with the sounds of the Charlie Lee band, popular throughout the Hudson Valley. Jones is best remembered for his role in "Donkey Serenade," as well as starring in 35 films with such co-stars as Jeanette MacDonald, Judy Garland, Fanny Brice, Helen Morgan and the Marx Brothers. Alan Jones is considered the Golden Tenor of his time and is the father of Jack Jones, well-known singer of today.

The festive evening of balls will begin at 7 p.m. at each of the three locations. There will be hors d'oeuvres galore, followed by prime rib dinners and tempting desserts. While dress is optional, it is anticipated that some area women will attend in formal finery, their escorts in tuxedos or dinner jackets. And it's just possible that a few couples will get completely into the spirit of the event and come in attire reminiscent of 1777.

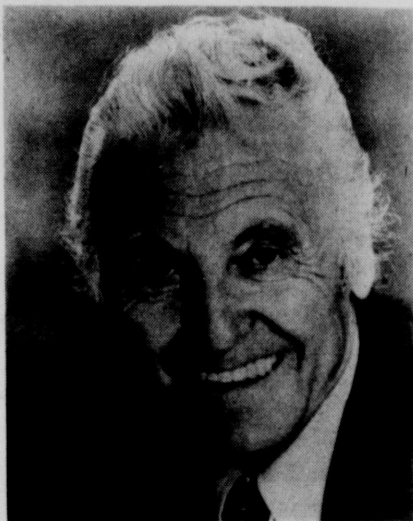

The art department at the John A. Coleman High School is assisting with the decoration of all three locations. Decoration plans are under the direction of Theresa Spada, with the assistance of the school's art instructor, William Brundage. Each site will have a different decor.

Tickets at $15 per person include the prime rib dinner at either of the three locations. However, those attending may then go from one gala to the other to enjoy the entertainments and dancing. Tickets are available at Arace Electronics, 16 Van Deusen St., Abram's Music Store, Wall Street, Holiday Inn, Washington Avenue, Colonade Restaurant, Albany Avenue, and the Walnut Grove, Field Court.

Appointed to Gateway Board

KINGSTON—The appointment of Craig Haight of New Paltz to a three-year term on the Board of Directors of Gateway Industries, Inc., was announced by its board president, Charles S. Ronder.

Haight, now a field underwriter for the New York Life Insurance Company, based in Kingston, served as a Methodist minister for 23 years with service in New Paltz from 1972 to 1976. Commenting on his major career change, Haight remarked that "there are enough similarities to make it easy and enough differences to make it interesting."

The new board member obtained his bachelor of arts degree from Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, and his masters degree from Union Theological Seminary, New York City. An active participant in community affairs, he has served in New Paltz on the Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Education, and Ulster County Task Force for Rehabilitation.

Haight replaces William S. Reardon on the Gateway Board. Reardon, a former elementary school principal in the Kingston Consolidated School system, recently moved to Florida with his family.

Gateway Industries Inc., a rehabilitation and training center for the handicapped and disabled, is located at 27 Hoffman St., Kingston.

Art Open Scheduled

BINGHAMTON—The fourth annual Arena '77 National Art Open has been scheduled for the Broome County Arena, Binghamton, May 13, 14 and 15. The show is sponsored by the Susquehanna School of Binghamton and the Kiwanis Club. Any artist interested in entering the competitive exhibition and sale, or the non-competitive exhibition and sale should contact Arena '77 Art Open, 75 Pennsylvania Ave., Binghamton, N.Y. 13903.

American Indian Medicine To be Explored at New Paltz

NEW PALTZ — "American Indian Concepts of Medicine and Contemporary Health Problems," will be the topic explored in the sixth annual Eastern Regional Conference on the Native American at the State University College at New Paltz, May 4. This year's conference will be divided into three sessions: American Indian Medicine and Public Health, The Historical Perspective: American Indian Concepts of Medicine Societies and their Therapeutic Effects, and Contemporary Health Problems. The third session will feature Henry P. Staub, M.D. from SUNY Buffalo Medical Center, speaking on Health and Care for the American Indian: a New Opportunity.

According to Laurence M. Hauptman, New Paltz history professor and conference coordinator, speakers will include: Robert Venables (Oswego), "The Impact of American Indian Medicine on Western Civilization"; Howard Vernon (New Paltz), "Indians, Alcohol and the Fur Trade"; and Hauptman, "Epidemics and American Indian Population Decline in Colonial New York."

Also speaking will be James Herrick (Utica), "Iroquois Herbalism"; Hope L. Isaacs (Buffalo School of Nursing), "American Indians' Concepts of Medicine: A Comparative Perspective"; and Russell Judkins (Geneeseo), "Diabetes." Other participants include: Gerald Kitzmann, Giselle Hendel-Sebestyen, and David Straus of the New Paltz faculty; Dr. David Mesches, and Peggy Weber.

The annual conference seeks to promote the cultural awareness of the unique heritage, contributions and problems of the native Americans. It is sponsored by the Native American Studies minor program at the college in cooperation with the Association of Native Americans, Mid-Hudson Region. Previous conferences have been concerned with "American Indian Art" and how the West was won, "often at the expense of the American Indian."

The meetings will be held in Lecture Center 100 from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., May 4 and are free to the public. Further information may be obtained from Laurence Hauptman, State University College at New Paltz.

How mean is Leon Spinks? Mean enough — as the Olympic gold medalist demonstrates for photographers while in New York for a day's training at Gleason's Gym. Spinks, who has knocked out all three professional opponents, meets Pedro Agosto in St. Louis on May 7.

DCSL SOFTBALL

Kingston Has Depth

KINGSTON—Only three starters are back and much of the team is young, but Kingston High School girls varsity softball coach Pat Burke thinks she's got another good team entering the 1977 Dutchess County Scholastic League season. "I know, it's amazing that with only three starters back to think you have a chance at the title," she said. "But we have a lot of good young players. I find myself cutting kids this year who probably would have started for us a couple of years ago. "We're deep in all positions," added Burke. "The main problem is picking a team."

The team went 11-5 and was third in the DCSL last year.

The three returnees were all-league picks last year, including seniors Ertha Burris in centerfield and Lori Eaton at shortstop and junior Diana Eaton at catcher. All batted near .400.

Burke says that Diana Eaton "has a fantastic arm. She'll pick runners off first or throw them out at second, she doesn't care which."

The pitching staff will be led by senior Linda Van Wagner, who will serve as tri-captain along with Burris and Lori Eaton and who was 2-2 last year. The mound corps includes sophomore Michelle Eaton, soph Maureen Donnelly (2-0) and junior Karen Bechtold (2-0). Senior Monica Boler, currently sidelined with leg problems, may also get an occasional start.

Burke's crop of newcomers will see plenty of playing time and she feels that they are loaded with talent. The freshmen include third baseman Patti Heins, catcher-infielder Sue Houghtaling and infielder Michelle McLane.

The soph contingent includes Donnelly, infielder-outfielder Debbie Cohen, Michelle Eaton and first basemen Kathy Moxham and Debbie Purhamus. From the junior class are Karen Bechtold, catcher Nancy Gallagher, speedy outfielder Sharon Glickman, infielder-outfielder Merri Lockwood, third baseman-outfielder Cindy Montague and rightfielder Lori Nagele.

The schedule opens Friday with the Tigers playing host to Ketcham at the MJM field. Burke feels that Ketcham, Arlington and Spackenkill should prove to be the league's toughest teams.

Saugerties Optimistic

SAUGERTIES—Looking at the youth on Saugerties High School's girls softball team, it's a wonder that coach Andrea Ungvasky is so optimistic.

"We have more skill on this team than I've seen at this school," she said. "Some were on the Little League team that went to the state finals."

Only two seniors and three juniors are on the squad of 17, with six each from the sophomore and freshman classes joining. And of the five returning veterans, four are only sophomores and the fifth is a junior.

Back from the team that went 8-8 last season is junior pitcher Peg Hain, 3-2, who batted .380 and also plays leftfield. The sophs coming back include second baseman Shelly Pfeil, a .490 hitter who led the team with nine stolen bases; centerfielder Tracy Craft, .500 with 22 runs batted in; catcher Barb Bryce and pitcher Tina Kime, who was a utility infielder last season.

The new faces include seniors Diane Myers and Geanine Costello in the outfield, juniors Dee Falzano and Lois Brandt also in the outfield, sophs Kelly Kraft as reserve catcher and Paula Fricke in the outfield, and the freshmen: first baseman Judy Hall, shortstop Colleen Falzano, third baseman Sharon Misasi, pitcher Kerry Kehoe, and infielders Karen Wachtel and Laurie Fabiano.

Hain, Kime and Kehoe will do the pitching, with the latter two mainly in relief.

Ungvasky sees Arlington, Kingston and Ketcham as the top three teams in the Dutchess County Scholastic League, but adds, "if everything falls into place and we mature, we could take a place."

The season opens on Friday when Saugerties hosts Roosevelt at 2 p.m.

Billy the Kid Corrals Sabres

UNIONDALE (UPI) — Not too many people walk away intact from a showdown with Billy the Kid, as the Buffalo Sabres found out Monday night.

The Sabres, looking to avenge their Stanley Cup quarter-final round defeat last season to the New York Islanders, instead came out on the short end of a 4-2 score in the first game of the best-of-seven series, thanks in large measure to Islanders' goalie Billy Smith.

"We had plenty of chances in the first two periods and we had enough to get two goals back, but 'Billy the Kid' made the difference," Buffalo Sabres' Coach Floyd Smith said ruefully. "They scored when they had to and we didn't. Smith was definitely the difference. He made the big saves."

Stopping Buffalo isn't a new experience for either Smith or New York. The opening-game victory was Smith's seventh in a row against the Sabres and, as a team, the Islanders are 8-1-1 versus their upstate rivals since the third game of last year's quarters (won by New York in six games after losing the first two).

Smith says he hasn't made any changes in his basic style—except maybe to get meaner.

"I'm not better than last season—not really," said Smith. "I'm meaner, maybe. If you acquire that reputation you can stop the sloppy goals in front of the net."

"Billy didn't play this well during the regular season," said defenseman Dave Lewis. "But he's concentrating now on no soft goals, no lapses."

Smith was especially sharp in the first period, when New York overcame the disappointment of a disallowed goal by Denis Potvin to take a 2-0 lead on goals that counted by Garry Howatt and Billy Harris.

Smith made outstanding stops on shots by Andre Savard and Gary McAdam and rejected Jerry Korab and Rene Robert in the final minute of the first period.

"Smitty played like superman," said Islanders' Captain Clark Gillies. "He kept us in the games against Chicago (in the Preliminary Round) and, point-blank tonight, he made 10 stops minimum."

"He's been coming down before practice for extra work; he's in super shape. He's not using a heckuva lot different style but he's clearing the puck and handling rebounds better."

Altogether, the New York net-minder made 37 saves, allowing only goals by Gil Perreault and Robert 2:01 apart midway through the second period.

The NHL playoff series resumes here in the Nassau Coliseum Wednesday night and moves to Buffalo for games 3 and 4 Friday and Sunday nights.

Revenge Isn't KC's Motivation

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Kansas City Royals aren't thinking about revenge against the New York Yankees. At least not yet.

Kansas City saw its greatest season ever come to a close last fall when New York's Chris Chambliss belted a ninth inning home run in the fifth game of a best-of-five American League Championship Series to give the Yankees a 7-6 victory and send them into the World Series.

There was a playoff-like atmosphere Monday night when the Royals and Yankees met for the first time since the playoffs; but this time it was the Royals who prevailed in extra innings, 5-4, on a two-out single by John Mayberry to score Fred Patek from second base with the winning run.

"We can't think about revenge yet," said Kansas City third baseman George Brett. "It's a long season—we have to win our division first and they have to win theirs."

"We weren't pointing up to this game. Last week in Detroit, we were thinking about playing the Tigers. We didn't look ahead to the Yankees. But it's nice to beat them because now we have a four-game winning streak."

Mark Littell, the losing pitcher in that final playoff game last year, pitched four hitless innings in relief of Paul Splittorff to pick up his first win while Dick Tidrow was tagged with the loss in relief of Sparky Lyle.

Kansas City took a 2-1 lead in the first inning of the nationally televised game on a single by Brett, two ground outs, a run-scoring throwing error by Bucky Dent and a double by Darrell Porter.

The Royals made it 3-1 in the second on a double by Pete LaCock, a single by Patek and a sacrifice fly by Frank White. But New York pulled to within one in the fourth on Reggie Jackson's first home run as a Yankee and took the lead in the fifth on doubles by Dent and Roy White plus a single by Thurmon Munson.

Mayberry singled to lead off the fifth and raced home on another double by Porter to make it 4-4.

Rangers 3, Indians 2

Toby Harrah's first homer of the season with one out in the 10th gave the Rangers their home-opening victory and tagged Cleveland with its first loss of the year. Adrian Devine, acquired from Atlanta during the winter, pitched one shutout inning to earn his first win while Dave LaRoche was the loser.

Wrigley Dies

CHICAGO (UPI) — Philip K. Wrigley, chewing gum magnate and owner of the Chicago Cubs baseball team, died today in the Elkhorn, Wis., hospital. He was 82.

A spokesman for the William Wrigley Co. Jr., said Wrigley became ill Monday night at his Lake Geneva, Wis., home and was taken to the Lakeland Hospital. He died early today.

The cause of death was given as gastro-intestinal hemorrhaging.

Twins 12, Mariners 3
Larry Hise and Dan Ford had three hits each and Rod Carew hit a two-run triple in a four-run fifth inning which gave the Twins a 5-1 lead. They added five more runs in the eighth inning to turn the game into a romp. Hise hit a two-run homer for Minnesota and Juan Bernhardt and Ruppert Jones homered for the Mariners.

Blue Jays 5, Tigers 3

Rookie Dave Rozema barked home a run triggering a four-run seventh inning as the Blue Jays handed the Tigers their fourth straight loss. Steve Hargan was the winner in relief while John Hiller was the loser.

DCSL BASEBALL

Neely Has Title Hopes

KINGSTON—The race for the Dutchess County Scholastic League baseball pennant should include Kingston High School this season. So says coach Bill Neely, who's not worried by the loss of eight graduated players.

"I like this team very much," said Neely, "there's competition at most positions; we have good depth. I really think we'll be up there by the top."

Neely cites the pitching as a team strength. Senior Kevin Jordan, 3-2 last year with a 2.20 earned run average, was the No. 2 hurler in 1976 and also plays second base. Senior Bob Schlanger was 2-1, 1.81 and both he and Jordan got better as the season went along.

Senior Cliff Lyons is the third pitcher, and he batted .241 when at third base last year but will switch to centerfield. Other returnees include outfielder-catcher John Grogan (.264), infielder Ron Kahlstorf and outfielder-pitcher Bruce Schnakenberg, all seniors.

"We have six positions to fill," said Neely. "The kids up from the junior varsity will do the job."

Senior Mike McWeeney, a transfer from Our Lady of Lourdes, will catch. Juniors Phil Haber and Dave Larson are battling it out for first base. Schlanger, Jordan and junior Ken Merritt all have a shot at second. The shortstop will be junior Bert Myers, who hit .417 for the jayvees and handled 41 chances without an error. Either Kahlstorf or Bill Stote will handle third base. Lyons in center, Grogan in left and junior Charlie Cherney in right, who hit .428 and led the jayvees with 16 runs batted in, make up the outfield.

Larson, McWeeney and junior Bruce Vilches, a transfer from Coleman who hit .538 with the Statesmen jayvees, are second-line pitchers, and Vilches also plays the outfield. Others include sophomore outfielder Ed Debrosky, junior outfielder Russ Shultis and junior catcher Gary Langton.

The lack of a lefthanded pitcher doesn't faze Neely. "I'd like to have one, but for the last three or four years we haven't had any."

Looking to improve upon last season's 8-10 mark in the DCSL, the Tigers open their season Friday by playing host to Ketcham at Dietz Stadium at 2 p.m.

SHS Builds Around Cole

SAUGERTIES—Tim Cole, the Dutchess County Scholastic League's finest pitcher, is back for his fourth year with the varsity baseball team at Saugerties High School.

And that fact will be one of the few bright spots in the early going as coach Tony Vizzie seeks to rebuild a club that returns only Cole (8-1, 3.74), first baseman Joe Maines (.273) and outfielder-pitcher Jim Hackett (.250). All are seniors.

"We lost quite a bit to graduation," said Vizzie. "We really don't know what will happen until we play. I plan to try a lot of untried kids. How well they do will determine how far we go."

One of Vizzie's main problems will be to pick between senior Tom Frnacello and junior Mike Martin as catcher to replace the departed Karl Lezette. "This could have a big effect," said Vizzie. "Cole throws hard and his fastball moves. You can get in trouble real easy with him. We'll have a catcher ho hasn't had much experience."

Cole leads the pitching staff that includes junior Joe Veltrie, sophomore Dale Martin and Hackett.

Filling in the gaps will be players up from last year's junior varsity. Junior Barry Mayday at second base or shortstop, senior George Beisel in the same slots and soph Russell Scally at third base round out the infield, with junior Joe Nistra in reserve.

Cole and Hackett, when not pitching, will play centerfield. Senior Rick Olson will be in left and either of two juniors in right, Dave Becker or Carl Yetter.

"When Cole pitches, we have a chance to beat any team in the league," said Vizzie. "We need hitting, though. We don't know how we'll do until we play. Poughkeepsie, Arlington and John Jay are strong in the DCSL, but a lot of other teams have equal ability."

The Sawyers were 18-5 overall in 1976, including a 12-5, third-place finish in the DCSL. They also won the sectional and intersectional titles in their class.

Saugerties opens its season on Friday at 2 p.m. at Roosevelt.

Marist College to Dedicate Recreation Center Sunday

The Field House

POUGHKEEPSIE—Marist College unveils its major new athletic facility, the James J. McCann Recreation Center, at dedication ceremonies Sunday.

The center will allow, for the first time in Marist history, the varsity basketball team to play its home games on its own campus. In addition, the college plans to increase both the athletic activities available to women and its intramural sports program for both men and women.

College President Linus R. Foy also noted that the community will benefit from the center. A variety of groups in the Mid-Hudson Valley will be able to utilize various parts of the facility when they are not being used for college functions.

There are two primary activity areas: a field house with a floor area of 220 feet by 130 feet, and a six-lane swimming pool that measures 45 feet by 120 feet.

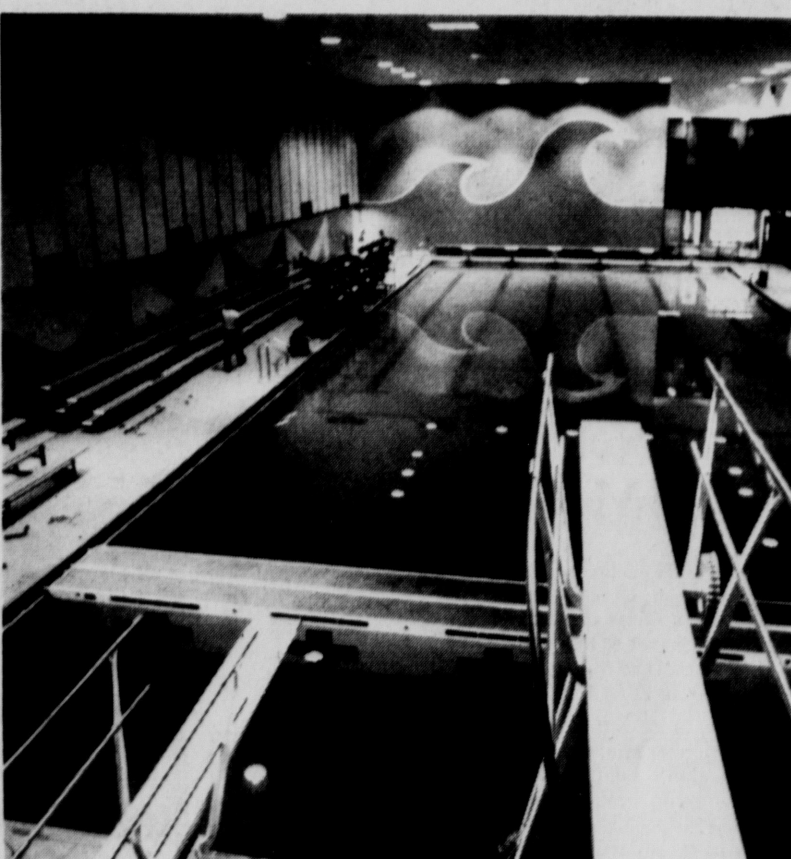

The field house, with 28,000 square feet, will be used for indoor soccer, tennis, track, basketball, volleyball, badminton and wrestling, as well as trade shows, art exhibits and concerts. Huge curtains may be used to divide the floor area into three separate sections, so that three different activities can take place simultaneously. The seating capacity is 2,500 with a press box available on the second floor.

The natatorium contains a 26,000-gallon swimming pool, room for 700 spectators and a computerized Colorado touch timing system capable of simultaneously displaying, recording and totalling split times and cumulative scores for dozens of competitors.

The center also contains rowing tanks, handball courts, a combatives room, a weight room, a dance studio, an audio visual room, a sauna, and locker facilities for both men and women.

The building was designed by local architect Paul Canin, who has designed several other buildings on the Marist campus.

Funds to finance the construction have been contributed and pledged by a variety of individuals and organizations, as part of the college's ongoing Capital Campaign. The greatest impetus to the effort to raise funds came in April, 1976, when the McCann Foundation, a charitable enterprise that assists religious, educational and community activities in the Mid-Hudson area, contributed an outright grant of $750,000 accompanied by a matching grant of $500,000. Further donations and pledges of contributions have come from local businesses, alumni, students and employees and other individuals.

Sub Officials For Playoffs

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The National Basketball Association playoffs get under way tonight, but in all likelihood most of the referees will be minor leaguers.

The National Labor Relations Board Monday delayed a decision on the dispute between the NBA and its striking referees, who are charging the league with unfair labor practices.

NLRB Philadelphia Regional Director Peter Hersch said the delay was granted after the referees requested more time to "submit additional information."

Hersch said "it will be a couple of days" before the evidence is presented before the NLRB and "sometime" after that before a decision will be made.

The National Association of Basketball Referees, which represents 24 of the league's 26 officials, claims the NBA refuses to recognize it as a legitimate bargaining agent.

"We have not refused to negotiate," said Simon Gourdine, the NBA's deputy commissioner and labor negotiator. "We will make a deal on an individual basis."

In the past, one lawyer has negotiated the contracts for each NBA official as an individual. But NABR attorney Richard Phillips of Philadelphia has been attempting to bargain collectively and tie the playoff negotiations with next season, something the NBA refuses to do.

"The basic issue is, in the past, we've only negotiated through this agent, but for individual contracts," Gourdine said.

The NABR is determined to take a collective bargaining approach this time and that is the main issue.

Gourdine said even if the NLRB ruled in favor of the referees' association, there probably would be an NBA appeal and it could be a long time before the matter finally was resolved.

Ed Rush, a referee working with the association committee, said he didn't know what the referees will do if the NLRB decision goes against them, but he doesn't think it will.

"We have a good case," he said.

The NBA says the strike by the 24 referees, which began Sunday, is "extortion" and refuses to negotiate with the NABR until it is recognized by the NLRB.

Gourdine says the league is ready to use Eastern League, summer league and college referees, who filled in Sunday, for the playoffs.

Bulls Worry Blazers

By UPI

Even with Bill Walton's assurance that he will not boycott Tuesday's opening round of the National Basketball Association playoffs, the Portland Trail Blazers are casting a wary eye toward the Chicago Bulls.

"The Bulls are going to be tough, much tougher than during the regular season," said Portland Coach Jack Ramsay. "We'll have to keep our poise and patience."

Portland defeated Chicago all four times during the regular season, a stat which makes Ramsay's plea seem like typical pre-playoff hype. But Chicago's 20-4 record down the stretch makes precautions seem wise.

"Artis Gilmore, Wilbur Holland and Scott May were relatively new in the Chicago system when we played them before," insisted Ramsay. "But they've come along."

Reports that Walton might honor picket lines set up by striking NBA referees had the Blazers and the league in a state of jitters for awhile.

But the star center cleared that up at Monday's practice session, saying as a member of the NBA Players Association he would not play if, as a body, the players association boycotted the games.

"I wouldn't act as an individual," Walton said, "only as a member of the players association."

Ramsay has a definite assignment for his talented but controversial big man in the best of three series.

"We're going to have to get strong games from our centers to neutralize Gilmore," Ramsay said. "We'll have to play with intensity. That's one thing about the playoffs—there is more intensity, especially on defense."

Portland has the home court advantage. If a third game is necessary, it will be in Portland Sunday afternoon. The second game is scheduled Friday night in Chicago.

Elsewhere, Boston faces San Antonio armed with the homecourt advantage, a gift from Milwaukee, which defeated the Spurs in Sunday's season finale.

With Dave Cowens nearly returned to par after his early season sabbatical and Charlie Scott recovered from a broken arm, the Celtics may have peaked at the right time in their bid to repeat as champions.

In a battle of dark-horses, Detroit will suffer from the absence of tempestuous forward Marvin Barnes, but center Bob Lanier is back after from a late-season hand injury. Golden State, champion two years ago and a disappointment last season, may be sending Jamaal Wilkes on the floor for the last time. Wilkes is playing out his option and is reportedly headed for the Los Angeles Lakers.

Cleveland and Washington open their series Wednesday in Landover, Md.

Lafleur beats Ed Johnston

Lafleur Refreshes Francis' Memory

MONTREAL (UPI)—St. Louis Coach Emile Francis needed no convincing about the ability of Montreal forward Guy Lafleur. But he got it anyway.

"If we can't stop Lafleur, we won't be able to go very far," moaned Francis after Lafleur scored a record-tying six points as the Canadiens downed the Blues 7-2 Monday night, taking a 1-0 advantage in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup playoff quarter-final series.

"There's no doubt about it, he's the best player in the NHL," said Francis. Lafleur's three goals and three assists gave him a share of the NHL record for most points in a playoff game. Dickie Moore set the mark with the Canadiens in 1954. Phil Esposito equalled it in 1969 with Boston and Toronto's Darryl Sittler tallied six last season against Philadelphia.

"I thought they'd check us a lot closer than that," said Lafleur, the regular season NHL scoring champ. "But we practiced hard all week on dropping the puck ahead and I guess it worked."

The smooth 25-year-old right wing scored two goals in the first period and added one in the second. He assisted Jacques Lemaire, Guy Lapointe and Bill Nyrop and said he wasn't even interested in breaking the record in his late shifts.

"After all, we had seven goals and that was enough to win the game," he said. "We've gotta save some for our next game."

Lafleur's comments may have been overly kind since the Blues managed only 20 shots on goal with goals by Bernie Federko and Bryan Sutter.

"It wasn't a particularly tough game," said goalie Ken Dryden. "But our forwards kept the puck so much, which just proves that when we're pressed everybody plays their game."

Francis acknowledged the strong Montreal effort but insisted St. Louis can play better.

"We made three mistakes and that cost us the game. We gave up a goal in the first minute. We allowed them to win faceoffs when we had a two-man advantage and then we gave up a goal in the last minute of play in the first period.

"You can't make mistakes like that against Montreal and expect to skate with them. I've always said the first 10 minutes are the most important and the Canadiens proved that out there."

Montreal Coach Scotty Bowman, not one to give incentive to the opposition, struggled to hold back chuckles when he said, "They're a tough team and they could come back Wednesday."

In other games, the New York Islanders topped Buffalo 4-2, Toronto surprised Philadelphia 3-2 and Boston mauled Los Angeles 8-3.

Maple Leafs 3, Flyers 2 Darryl Sittler, Dave Williams and Errol Thompson scored first-period goals in a 4:42 span as Toronto withstood power-play goals by Rick MacLeish and Bob Dailey to assume a 1-0 lead in the series and take away Philadelphia's home-ice advantage. Toronto goalie Wayne Thomas replaced flurried Mike Palmateer and repulsed a third-period flyer comeback bid.

Bruins 8, Kings 3 Bobby Schumatz earned a hat trick in the first period and Boston went on to easily grab a 1-0 lead in the series. Brad Park, Gregg Sheppard, Terry O'Reilly, Stan Jonathan and Matti Hagman scored Boston goals, while Don Kazak, Vic Venasky and Dave Hutchison tallied for Los Angeles.

Reds Also Off to Slow Start

By UPI

So far this season, baseball's highly paid, heavily publicized teams such as the Cincinnati Reds and the New York Yankees have been struggling to look respectable, while an unheralded team such as the Houston Astros has been looking like a champion — even without injured superstar Cesar Cedeño, who has yet to play this year.

The latest episode in the season-opening slump of the World Champion Reds, now 2-3, came Monday night as the Astros beat Cincinnati 4-3 for Houston's third victory in four games, good for first place in the National League West, one game ahead of Los Angeles and 1½ ahead of Cincinnati.

Houston pounced on Cincinnati starter and loser Woodie Fryman, 1-1, for all its runs in the first inning, highlighted by Cliff Johnson's first home run of the season, a two-run blast.

"I keep telling the kid (second baseman Julio Gonzalez) that when we get Cesar Cedeño back in the lineup we're going to run amuck," third baseman Enos Cabell said while nursing a bruised elbow inflicted by a Fryman pitch in the first.

"It hurts like hell," Cabell said, lifting an ice pack to peer at his left arm. "I don't care how much it hurts, though, because taking it helped the team."

Cabell's free pass with one out started Houston rolling and a tandem of Polish pitchers, starter Doug Konieczny and reliever Joe Niekro, checked the Reds on eight hits. Konieczny won his first decision of the season and Niekro got his first save this year.

"That was a big win for the Polish alliance," Konieczny said. Asked if Niekro also was of Polish descent, Konieczny said, "We're both pedigrees." Konieczny credited his breaking pitches, and Niekro credited his slower than usual knuckleball, with fooling the Reds.

Besides his homer, Johnson crashed into the left field wall in the fifth while making a spectacular catch off a drive by Pete Rose.

Cincinnati got a solo homer from Ken Griffey and two hits from Dan Driessen — his first this year after going 0-for-15 — but they were not enough.

In the only other NL games, Chicago topped Philadelphia 6-2 and Atlanta edged Los Angeles 7-6.

Cubs 6, Phillies 2 Manny Trillo's double highlighted a two-run third inning and Bobby Murcer connected for his second home run of the season as Chicago downed Philadelphia behind the seven-hit pitching of Bill Bonham, who held the Phillies scoreless until the ninth.

Braves 7, Dodgers 6 Willie Montanez singled with the bases loaded in the fourth inning to climax a four-run rally and pitcher Mike Marshall keyed a two-run ninth inning that carried Atlanta over Los Angeles.

Marshall singled in a run before Pat Rickett hit into a double play to score Gary Matthews with the winning run in the ninth. Atlanta held off a ninth-inning Dodgers rally to clinch the victory.

Corbett Raps Kuhn

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Bowie Kuhn officially is on the Texas Rangers' enemies list.

Rangers' owner Brad Corbett took the time Monday to spell out a brief list of dastardly deeds he feels baseball's commissioner has committed in recent weeks.

— Corbett thinks Kuhn has mishandled the attack on Texas Manager Frank Lucchesi by second baseman Lenny Randle.

— He says the commissioner is using different guidelines in approving or disapproving trades.

"I want to apologize to (Oakland owner) Charles Finley," Corbett said at a news conference. "He wanted to fire the commissioner two years ago and I changed my mind and cast the vote that allowed Bowie Kuhn to save his job."

"I wish I had a chance to do that all over again," Corbett has been trying to make a trade with Finley for left-handed pitcher Vida Blue, but Kuhn has refused to approve the deal.

"He (Kuhn) let the Yankees buy Bucky Dent," Corbett said. "That makes me sick. Finley is a very daring owner and I think he is prepared to go ahead with the deal but we are not. I've talked to several owners on the phone and they are unanimous in feeling we need to set down some guidelines for Kuhn to work under."

"We have given him some broad powers and I think we can restrict him. I can't understand the inconsistencies he comes up with. He will suspend an owner. But he refuses to suspend a player."

Sales Up, Profit Down

ERIE, Pa. (UPI) — Ham-mill Paper Co.'s first-quarter profit dropped to 55 cents a share from 78 cents a year ago in spite of a rise in sales to $172.12 million from $152.28 million.

President Albert F. Duval said the decline in earnings to $4.26 million from $5.81 million resulted from high fuel costs and other expenses caused by severe winter weather.

GE Shares Up 25 %

NEW YORK (UPI) — General Electric Co. earned $215.4 million, or 95 cents a share in the first quarter of 1977, a 25 per cent increase from $172.5 million or 77 cents a share in the same period last year.

Sales for the quarter were $4.06 billion, a 17 per cent increase from $3.48 billion a year ago.

Reginald H. Jones, GE chairman, said substantial increases in sales and earnings from consumer goods, industrial components and system sales, and gas turbine and power delivery apparatus more than offset a small loss in the nuclear energy business, decreased steam-turbine generator shipments and generally lower earnings from foreign manufacturing operations.

American Exchange Getting Moving Bids

NEW YORK (UPI) — The American Stock Exchange said Monday "final proposals" by New York, New Jersey and Connecticut on a new home for the Amex are expected to be received within two weeks.

The Amex said the proposals by New Jersey and Connecticut and a joint plan by New York city and state will cover topics such as financing, transportation and taxes related to the new facility in greater detail than contained in previous presentations to the exchange.

"Our advance look at portions of the new proposals indicates they will be professional, responsive to our needs and exciting," Amex Chairman Paul Kolton said at the exchange's annual corporate meeting.

Connecticut and New Jersey officials started a campaign last year to try to entice the Amex to relocate in their states, using more favorable securities tax laws as a lure.

In New York, city and state officials have pledged to seek better tax treatment for the securities industry and have suggested several new Wall Street locations for the Amex.

The Amex is expanding its current cramped facilities on Trinity Place in the Wall Street district which it says should meet its space needs until 1980. Aside from its own space requirements, a decision on a new home after 1980 also hinges on the outcome of current negotiations with the New York Stock Exchange on a possible merger.

Kolton gave no additional details of what the various city and state officials are expected to propose but said the final presentation will "fill in areas not discussed before."

The Amex studies reportedly deal with the economic outlook in the three states and the likelihood that securities taxes will be repealed or imposed in the future. Regarding transportation, the Amex is studying where exchange participants live in the tri-state area and what commuting problems might be connected with relocation.

NYC Starts Repayment

NEW YORK (UPI) — The city began repaying nearly $1 billion in matured municipal notes Monday by turning over a $823,302.09 check to Flushing National Bank, which successfully challenged a plan to delay reimbursement.

The state's highest court ruled the moratorium unconstitutional and ordered that a plan be devised for investors in the city paper to be paid. The ruling plunged the city into its worst financial chaos since 1975 when the fiscal crunch began.

Invaders Want All Of Zaire

By UPI

Gen. Ntanieli M'Bumba, leader of the invading forces in Zaire's Shaba province, said in an interview today he aims at "liquidating" President Mobutu Sese Seko and setting up a new government of national unity.

He said his forces had killed "hundreds" of government soldiers in what formerly was called Katanga province.

M'Bumba said morale was so low among Zairean troops that tank drivers had been found padlocked to their vehicles so they could not surrender or escape.

The interview with the former commander of the elite Katanga gendarmes during an abortive secession attempt in the early 1960s contrasted with previous reports that the rebels simply wanted to win independence for the remote copper-rich province.

M'Bumba claimed that Belgians and Frenchmen were fighting on the Zairean side. French planes Monday flew military equipment supplied by Morocco to the Shaba front, but the Paris government denied any direct participation in the five-week-old conflict.

French Communists have denounced France's airlifting of supplies to Zaire and called for an urgent National Assembly debate today on the issue.

M'Bumba told Inter Press Service news agency in an interview published in the Socialist daily Matin de Paris that his forces had seized the towns of Mutshasha, Kinsji, Kasaju, Sandoa, Dilolo and Kapanga in the mineral-rich province.

He said "hundreds" of Zairean troops had been killed by rebel forces and the morale of government troops was low. M'Bumba said "thousands of volunteers" were joining his forces.

"We believe that we must drive out Mobutu from power and set up a national unity government," M'Bumba said. "His whole team will be liquidated."

He said government forces suffered "hundreds of killed" March 13 when his Angola-based troops captured Kasaji. M'Bumba said his forces shot down two Zairean bombers and captured a number of tanks.

M'Bumba said, "We have found tank drivers locked in with padlocks without being able either to surrender or to flee. Zairean forces have lost many men. The officers have executed mutinous soldiers who refused to fight against us. They even inflicted punishment on the populations of the towns which have staged demonstrations in our favor."

France said it flew the Moroccan war supplies to Lubumbashi, the capital of Shaba province, because neither Morocco, which has provided 1,500 troops, nor Zaire had the planes to transport the equipment quickly enough.

France said its planes will not carry troops and will not be involved in any fighting. It was not known exactly what kind of materiel was flown in. Robert Ballanger, the French Communist party's National Assembly floor leader, called for debate on the issue and demanded an immediate halt to the airlift. He charged the decision was made unconstitutionally.

Cuba, the Soviet Union and Angola have denied involvement in the invasion.

NOTICE OF SALE
Index No. 76-2308

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale duly made and entered in the above entitled action, bearing date the 11th day of March, 1977, I, the undersigned, the referee in said judgment named, will sell at public auction at the Courthouse in the City of Kingston and County of Ulster, New York, on the 21st day of April, 1977, at 11:00 in the forenoon of that day, the premises directed by said judgment to be sold and therein described being as follows:

ALL THE FOLLOWING LOTS, TRACTS OR PARCELS OF LAND situate, lying and being in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, State of New York, designated as "PARCEL 1" and "PARCEL 11" and which are bounded and described as follows:

ALL THAT TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, with the buildings thereon, situate in the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, New York, lying and being on the northerly side of Foxhall Avenue formerly owned by John Austin and which lot is bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING on said Avenue at the bounds of a lot now or formerly of J. Diamond and running thence southerly along said Avenue one hundred forty foot to a stone set in the ground, thence on hundred seventy three feet northeasterly along the line of said Hulser and Diamond lot to the place of beginning.

EXCEPTING therefrom, a triangular piece conveyed by said Anna M. Hamm and William Hamm, her husband, to Thomas J. Diamond by deed dated June 20, 1893 recorded in Deed Book 312 page 109 June 21, 1893. The balance of lot, after deducting the above described portion, is a lot of 71 feet on Foxhall Avenue 117 feet along property now of Harris about 64 feet along property of Thomas J. Diamond and about 76 feet 3 inches along Koltz.

ALSO EXCEPTING AND RESERVING from and out of the above described premises, all that part and portion thereof, to Patrick Dempsey, by deed dated March 29th, 1907 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book of Deeds No. 402 at page 157, and the balance of the premises conveyed by Caroline Dimmick to Florence M. Harris, by deed dated May 31, 1904 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Deed Book 312 page 109 June 21, 1893.

BEING the same premises conveyed by Madeline C. Dempsey, her husband, and Shirley M. Schryver, his wife, by deed dated August 28, 1969 and to be recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office in Deed Book 312 page 109 June 21, 1893.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 13
Your birthday today: Finds you in a holding pattern that will last for about a year and a half while you perfect skills, evoke stronger faith. Relationships are more time consuming, yet less clearly defined. It's up to you where they lead, as daily choices build slowly to definite habits. Today's natives are forever hopeful, much given to nostalgia. Those born this year will have talent in one of the arts, must learn to discriminate between practicality and idealism.

Aries [March 21-April 19]: Experience now supports the idea you must back-track a little to accept success smoothly. Listen: family, in-laws tell you what to do next without delay.

Taurus [April 20-May 20]: Keep your sales resistance up; substitutes are offered for many items. Overambitious scheming quickly runs a collision course with established plans.

Gemini [May 21-June 20]: Associates, passing strangers have axes to grind, nobody handy to accommodate them. You needn't volunteer nor expect anyone to go out of his way to help you.

Cancer [June 21-July 22]: Home and career interests clash. You can't be in two different places at the same time. Try for a decision in a positive direction, proceed with faith.

Leo [July 23-Aug. 22]: Have patience until late day when you can drive a shrewd bargain, get what you want. Friends assume marvelous qualities in you, give impractical advice.

Virgo [Aug. 23-Sept. 22]: Deep-seated troubles surface. There's more to any issue than is apparent; take it seriously. Don't tamper with satisfactory or passable financial arrangements.

Libra [Sept. 23-Oct. 22]: In dealing with people you know well, you get new insight, a surprise. Imagine how you look to others, but put off changes until sure of your ideas.

Scorpio [Oct. 23-Nov. 21]: Your sense of humor saves the day if you don't use it to add provocation to already irritating natural influences. Too-easy promises are not redeemed.

Sagittarius [Nov. 22-Dec. 21]: Impulsive moves are very expensive. Unsound plans come apart; let the fault lie elsewhere. You're checked on by people who care, some who feel otherwise.

Capricorn [Dec. 22-Jan. 19]: Nothing stays put for long; fill in details as you go. That doesn't mean passing the buck, harassing others, or killing time in idle amusements.

Aquarius [Jan. 20-Feb. 18]: Wind up any venture that won't carry its own freight, perhaps scale it down if it does. Make these determinations late, after checking it all through.

Pisces [Feb. 19-March 20]: Secrets pop out as a word here is matched with a word there. Thoroughly aired, an unwholesome situation, not scandal blows away as smoke in a breeze.

TEEN FORUM

By JEAN ADAMS, Ph.D.

INVITATION: (Q.) Jon's parents are very kind to me. I just love them. They invited me to spend a weekend with Jon and them at their lake home this summer.

Jon is 16 and I am 15. We are very close, and he respects me. But I asked my dad if I could go and he said no. He is afraid people will think he is a bad father.

Is this fair? Am I unreasonable to want so much to go? — Crushed in Texas

(A.) No. You are not unreasonable. I endorse such visits when the parents invite the boy or girl and when they will be on hand to chaperone.

I do not know whether your father says no because he is afraid people will talk about you or whether he is afraid people will notice he doesn't have a lake home to invite friends to.

Neither reason is good enough to justify depriving you of a pleasant summer weekend.

17 AND 49: (Q.) I am in love with this man. We are living together. We have one child and another on the way. We are planning to be married soon.

The problem is that he is 49 and has a son, age 11, and a daughter nearly as old as I am. I am 17.

Do you think we have a chance, considering the difference in our ages? — Concerned in Alabama

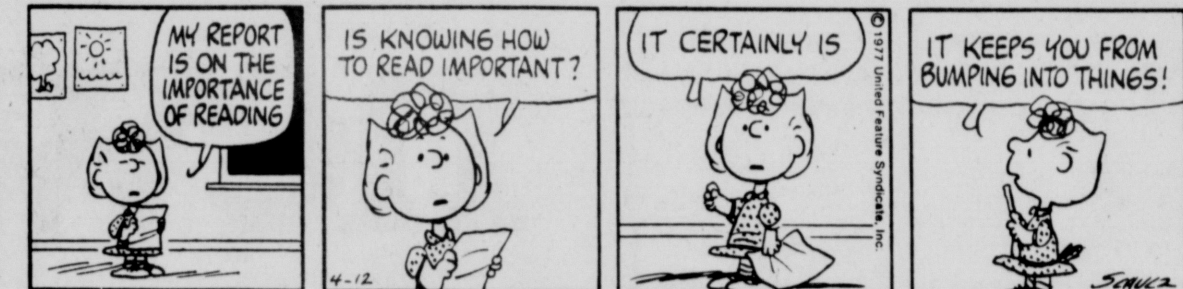

(A.) After you are married, you will have a better chance than you have now. So get married as quickly as possible and get busy making a real home for your husband, your children and yourself.

If there were no children, I would advise you to leave him and start over. But you must deal with facts as they are. Be positive and hopeful. A marriage like yours CAN be made to work.

Two children are enough, though. After the current one is born, ask your physician for help on birth control.

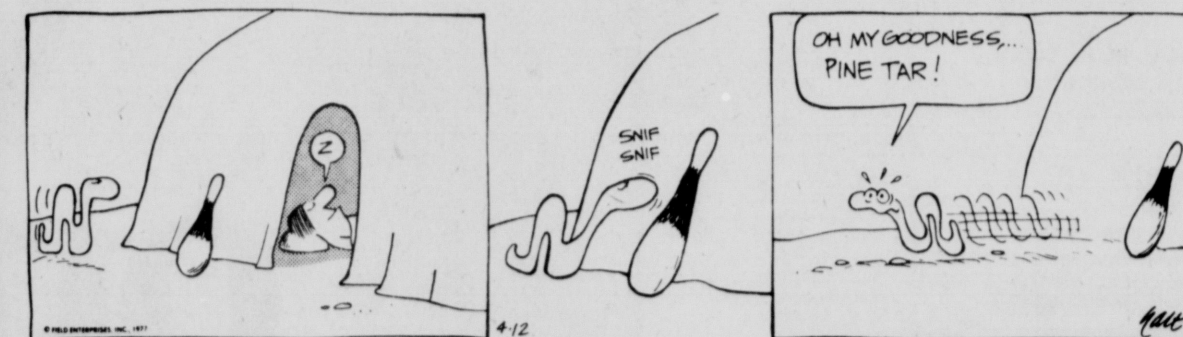

(Have a problem? Write to Dr. Jean Adams, care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Tex. 77001. Because so many write, Dr. Adams cannot answer you personally. But she will answer readers' questions in Teen Forum daily.)

GOOD PLAYER KNOWS WHEN TO TRY FINESSE

"He ruffed the second heart, drew trumps with the king and ace, and ruffed dummy's last heart.

"Then he took the ace and queen of clubs. When he led dummy's last club my partner played low without hesitation. Still, declarer finessed with the ten of clubs just as though he had seen the jack in my partner's hand.

"What should I do about this?"

CONGRATULATIONS
Congratulate your opponent. It's always possible for an opponent to spot a card by good eyesight, but good play is a far more likely explanation.

When South took the club finesse he was sure of his contract no matter who had the jack of clubs. If West had the jack, he could take the trick but would then have to lead diamonds or hearts. Either way, South would lose only one diamond trick.

If South played the three top clubs he would eventually lose three diamond tricks — and his contract.

The key play is South's careful ruff of dummy's last heart. This set the stage for the eventual club finesse to guarantee the contract.

DAILY QUESTION
Partner opens with one heart, and the next player bids one spade. You hold: ♠ A 10 9 8 ♥ 6 5 3 ♦ Q 6 2 ♣ 5 4. What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass. With only 6 points and only poor 3-card support for partner's suit you cannot move.

Second Soviet Ship Seized, Due in Boston Today

BOSTON (UPI) — The United States, reacting strongly to Soviet violations of its new 200-mile fishing limit law, escorted a second Russian ship into port today and warned continued infractions could worsen relations between the two superpowers.

The 503-foot refrigeratortransport ship Antanas Snechkus, the high-seas mother ship of the Soviet fishing fleet off New England, was ordered to Boston Monday, less than 48 hours after the Coast Guard seized a Soviet trawler on direct orders from President Carter.

Announcement of the action came as the 275-foot stern trawler Taras Shevchenko and her 93-member crew arrived in Boston Harbor under Coast Guard escort.

The Coast Guard alleges the trawler caught 50 tons of river herring — seven times the maximum permitted under its fishing license. Most of the catch was transferred to the mother ship, the Coast Guard said.

The Taras Shevchenko, taken into custody Saturday, was the first foreign vessel seized since the law took effect March 1. U.S. Attorney James Gabriel said he would await an in-depth examination of evidence before pressing charges against the trawler.

Gabriel said the Taras Shevchenko can be held for "a reasonable length of time." Asked if he will press charges, Gabriel said "I'd like to think so," but added, "there's always that chance" it will not occur.

Lt. Cmdr. William Norris, the Coast Guard's district legal officer, said there also was a "possibility" criminal charges will be filed against the Antanas Snechkus. A portion of her catch already has been ordered seized.

In Washington, Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher warned Vladilen Vasev, minister of the Soviet embassy, that further violations could worsen relations between the countries.

"Mr. Christopher noted the recurring incidents involving Soviet fishing vessels and reiterated the deep concern of the United States government . . . over the continued patterns of violations of the U.S. fisheries law," a State Department statement said.

President Carter and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin meet today on other matters, and the seizures may also be discussed, the White House said.

Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee which drafted the 200-mile fishing limit law, said "There is no rational basis for the Coast Guard, in doing its proper job of enforcing American domestic laws, to be overruled in the back rooms of State."

Since the law went into effect, about 100 foreign vessels have been boarded, but the Taras Shevchenko was the first seized. Christopher noted 58 of 73 citations issued to foreign vessels in the first six weeks of the law went to Soviet ships.

Both the trawler and mother ship were boarded by the Coast Guard about 130 miles east-southeast of Nantucket Island.

Rosenbaum Slated As GOP Committeeman

ALBANY (UPI) — When it meets Wednesday, the Republican State Committee is expected to name State Chairman Richard Rosenbaum as a national committeeman.

Although the official business at the meeting will be the filling of two vacancies on the national party panel, a prime topic of conversation will doubtless be Rosenbaum's future as head of the state GOP.

Rosenbaum is expected to step down as chairman at some point in the not-too-distant future after more than four years at the helm, party sources have acknowledged, although no firm date has been set.

Speed Reading Course

To Be Taught In

KINGSTON/POUGHKEEPSIE

The New England Reading Lab is offering their famous speed reading course to a limited number of qualified people here in the Kingston/Poughkeepsie area. The average person who completes this course can read 5-8 times faster, and with substantially improved comprehension and better concentration.

This famous course has taught many thousands of people to read over 1000 words per minute with the ability to understand and retain what they have read much more effectively. Average graduates can read most novels in less than one hour. In rare instances, speeds of up to 20 times faster have been documented.

For complete details about this famous speed reading course, be sure to attend one of the free one hour orientation lectures that have been scheduled. These lectures are open to the public, above age 13 (persons under 18 should be accompanied by a parent, if possible,) and the course will be explained in complete detail, including class schedules, instruction procedures and a tuition that is much less than similar courses.

Most banks will offer you reasonable interest rates for short-term financing of your new car. But when you ask for a long-term loan, watch your rates soar.

Not so at Bankers Trust. We've come up with a new plan: one low interest rate for all new car loans, whether one year or four. So you can stretch your repayments out over a longer period, making each one smaller, without paying the penalty of higher rates.

Say you borrow $3,500 for a four-year period, your 48 monthly repayments will be only $88.68, based on our new Annual Percentage Rate of only 9.95%. Total cost: $4,256.64.

Come in and tell us how much you want to borrow, and we'll tell you how little you'll repay each month.
